DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because the term "comprises" or "comprise" that used in patent claims should be avoided. Correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 1-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1, lines 6-7, recites limitation "the final probability distribution function" is lack antecedent basis.

In claim 9, lines 7-8, recites limitation "the final probability distribution function" is lack antecedent basis.

In claim 16, line 11, recites limitation "the final probability distribution function" is lack antecedent basis.

Further, in each of claims 1, 9 and 16, the step/operation of extract/extracting a time domain impulse response from parameters that characterize a communication channel is not clear on what the performance extracting a time domain of measuring parameter signal of channel, or extracting a time of measured parameter signal of channel (after transformed from frequency domain to time domain)? Different technique can reached into the claim language. Revision and correction is required to point out the subject matter that applicant regards as the invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

4. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

The claims are directed to a judicial exception; as such, pursuant to the Interim Guidelines on Patent Eligible Subject Matter (MPEP 2106), the claims must have either physical transformation and/or a useful, concrete and tangible result. The claims fail to include transformation from one physical state to another. Although, the claims appear useful and concrete, there does not appear to be tangible result claimed. Merely recite extracting, generating, and computing a relationship between bit error rate (?) and voltage margin (?) steps would not appear to be sufficient to constitute a tangible result, since the outcome of these steps has not been used in a disclosed practical application nor made available in such a manner that its usefulness in a disclosed practical application can be realized. As such, the subject matter of the claims is not patent eligible. Need to convey a result to a useful manner make available for use.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 1-22 would be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, and further overcome the 101 rejection as set forth in this Office action.

The indication of allowable subject matter of the claims will be provided when the interrelationship between (the final?) probability distribution function and the bit error rate (?) and the voltage margin (?) have been clarified in the claimed invention as mentioned in the 112, 2nd paragraph and the 101 rejections above.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
